| 1  | Smith was very homophobic when I was there. I didn't feel supported socially, nor did I fit it, because I am lesbian. I was reported by someone in my house to the Dean of Students for having a lesbian relationship. Even now, in this questionnaire, I detect strong currents of heterosexism. There are no questions pertaining to lesbians or trans folks. It is because of all these feelings, even after 50 years, that I hae only been back to campus briefly once, and will never attend a reunion at Smith. | 2/25/2019 4:40 PM  |

| 136 | Not positive because there was not enough interaction with men on a day to day basis. The often artificial atmosphere of weekends at Yale or other male colleges were not conducive to getting to know men more naturally. Being heterosexual, and, in those days, far less "educated" about sex, more naïve, I think the atmosphere of sexual encounters was artificial and in some ways unhealthy.                  | 12/9/2018 1:41 PM  |

I hated this atmosphere and was not happy at Smith. Had a very small group of friends and one great mentor on faculty. Otherwise I was unhappy at Smith. Grateful to smith for full scholarship but would never advise my granddaughters to attend Smith. | 12/9/2018 11:20 AM |

| 1  | Upon graduation, I felt unprepared to enter the workforce and to ace the challenge of being on my own. My cocky self-confident attitude with which I entered Smith had disappeared.   | 2/22/2019 8:52 PM  |
| 2  | Smith was great for so many reasonsacademic, inspiring women to do their best, a beautiful setting. You could not be a lesbian when I was there, but it wasn't Smith's fault. I think there is acceptance for that now, which is good.  | 2/15/2019 3:44 PM  |
| 3  | I spent a wonderful junior year abroad in Spain. This helped attenuate some of the less positive aspects of Smith that I had experienced beforehand, but, it was somewhat hard to go back.  | 2/13/2019 9:44 PM  |
| 4  | I received an excellent education at Smith that prepared me well for post-graduate work, but I have always felt that my midwestern roots and more conservative views did not jibe with eastern liberal dogma. At least when we were at Smith, there seemed to be more room for dialogue than there is now.  | 2/13/2019 11:58 AM |
| 5  | this questionnaire has been thought-provoking and makes me wonder about how I view and evaluate the way I am living my life now. Important to do that now. I'd like to have a copy of the questions and my answers - I wonder if that will be possible but won't know until I click "done." They weren't so easy to answer - and that is not a complaint. Some required more thought - and a longer answer in several cases. I'd suggest leaving room for that the next time.               | 2/9/2019 9:46 AM   |
| 6  | I wish I'd been more mature and taken more advantage of what Smith offered.   | 2/4/2019 9:59 PM   |
| 7  | I was extremely disappointed that the atmosphere at Smith caused Christine Lagarde to withdraw from speaking. Smith should be about celebrating women who achieve success and influence in fields generally dominated by men. It still rankles enough that I have reduced my donations to Smith and may discontinue them all together, despite the fact that I am a liberal and support the concept of women's education.   | 2/2/2019 7:42 PM   |
| 8  | Life is what it is. Getting older sucks.  | 2/2/2019 11:52 AM  |
| 9  | The best parts of my Smith education did not always come from the classroom; rather I think the interaction between students of all the classes, backgrounds, philosophies and sexual orientation as well as the opportunity to interact informally with professors broadened my understanding of what a real education means. Consequently, the best compliment a grown student of mine ever gave me was that I didn't just teach my subject, I taught my high school students about life. | 1/29/2019 4:30 PM  |

| 13 | As a black woman, my experiences at Smith richly prepared me for my life after graduation.  | 1/21/2019 10:18 AM |

I graduated 2nd in my Cocoa, Florida high school class of 617, and received early-decision 14 1/20/2019 4:41 PM acceptance at Smith. My academic gifts, however, were not sufficient to allow me to feel comfortable at Smith. I was the first in my family of origin to go to college. I had none of the social and familial intellectual background to fit in. Still, I managed to make A's and B's in my courses, and even somehow made an A in calculus. In my freshman year I had a most wonderful English teacher. By the end of the year I wrote an A-paper on Lawrence's The Rainbow. But then in the summer I met a young man, I left Smith, we married, and had a daughter the summer of 1969. Fortunately, we lived in Boston, and in 1972 I was able to enter the Wellesley College continuing education program, receiving my BA in English, with Honors & a Phi Beta Kappa key & a fellowship to the Boston College English Ph.D. program. At the same moment, my husband left me for another woman. I survived graduate school and teaching a couple of liberal arts colleges as a single mother. When my daughter was about 12, I had to leave academia and take a job as a technical writer in the computer industry. I am pleased that she has had a more successful life than I have, and she and her husband have given me two beautiful grandchildren. Along the way, I discovered the deep and healing practice of yoga and meditation, rooted in the most ancient Vedic teachings of India. It is my joy now to run a yoga studio, and provide yoga therapy that releases my clients from pain at all levels. I look forward to seeing what good my grandchildren can bring into the world. 15 Nothing comes to mind. 1/20/2019 4:39 PM 16 I would have shaken influence of my parents sooner, not chosen the company of men so avidly, 1/20/2019 4:15 PM and exercised more farsightedness and independence in my decisions and relationships. my older sister committed suicide while at Smith. I chose Smith and made life affirming choices 17 1/20/2019 2:40 PM there. I also graduated with honors I'm glad I went to Smith. I like the reaction from folks who know good schools whenever I'm asked 1/18/2019 10:24 PM 18 where I went to college, so it's been a useful cohort to be part of. While there, I realize I sometimes felt very out of it, with a lot of subtle put downs and even discrimination.. when I arrived I had no Brooks Brothers sweaters or Peck and Peck cables, and I didn't play bridge or read the NYT or fit in the private school cliques. I wasn't going to have a coming out party... wow, that sure meant something different back then... so I did feel distanced by a sort of snobbishness that I was in no way prepared for and was at a loss as to how to react or talk about it. Perhaps part of my reaction was to eschew status and high salary and seek and enjoy the unusual, the interesting and in the process, try to do things that were caring and sensitive to the needs of other people, other cultures and share whatever useful skills and knowledge I might have. And I've felt more comfortable behind the scenes than in the limelight. I liked being at a women's college, though not the pressure to go off to men's schools for the weekends. I did do that a fair amount and did meet my husband through a blind date! TEDIOUS QUESTIONAIRE! 19 1/17/2019 12:28 AM I continue to struggle with the sense that I lost a lot of self-confidence while at Smith. Although I 1/15/2019 5:45 PM 20 am very proud of, and grateful for, the education that I received at the College, whatever insecurities I may have had before arriving in Northampton in the Fall of '65, they increased and intensified during my time there. Having been the proverbial "big fish in a small pond", I found the experience of becoming "a little fish in a big pond" daunting. Despite modest successes and recognition while an undergraduate and throughout my life, there remains in me a lingering sense of being/having "less than" many of my classmates ~ less talented, less intelligent, less financially successful ~ that will accompany me back to Northampton in May. While I don't think I am alone in these feelings, and that there are classmates who struggle with some of the same insecurities, I do sometimes wonder if I had gone to college elsewhere, would I feel a greater sense of accomplishment and confidence. Having said all of this, I must acknowledge that I am very much looking forward to getting together in May with such a group of remarkable women as made up the Smith Class of 1969! 21 N/a 1/15/2019 3:00 PM 1/15/2019 1:01 PM 22 The greatest pain comes from the relationship with my step-daughter, who restricts our time with our grandchildren. The greatest joy is from spending time with my family. 23 About health: good, considering that I have a chronic disease. Wish I had a sexual partner, not 1/14/2019 1:47 AM easy or likely considering that I'm somewhat handicapped. Junior year abroad was the most important year I spent at Smith. My biggest concern is that the 1/12/2019 12:57 PM 24 country will experience a civil war in my lifetime due to the current political chaos, racism, social inequality--all of which will be impacted by climate change affecting our lifestyles and forcing millions to migrate.

| 25 | I wish I had waited a year or two before going to college; I don't think I took advantage of what Smith had to offer and did not have a particularly positive experience. However, since then I've enjoyed connecting with Smith graduates of all ages and find a wonderful common ground. And I'm proud of the ways in which Smith is addressing both gender and racial diversity.  | 1/12/2019 10:10 AM |
| 26 | My relationship with Smith College has undergone a series of changes over the years. I was happy and proud to be accepted by the college in 1965. The men's Ivies weren't open to women then. Things were as they were. By graduation in 1969, I began to feel constriction from having attended an all-woman's college. Younger women were beginning to choose co-ed universities that had previously been closed to them, and finding more powerful teachers and richer educational experiences. Or so it seemed. Women's colleges were under pressure to go co-ed, and many did. Smith held firm with single sex, and at the 20 year mark, I wondered about that. At the 25 year mark, I worried about all the bad press the college was getting about homosexual activity on campus. I was a feminist, in favor of more rights and acceptance of women in all fields of endeavor, but I worried that the Smith experience was being tainted and undercut by conservative social views. My daugher refused to consider the college, and though she chose Barnard in the end, she made her choice with the maleness of Columbia across the street in mind. My view of Smith began to change again at the 30-35 year mark. I returned for reunion and met classmates who talked about the power of a women's community. I began to express these views myself in my writing, and to see examples of them in my own life. Since then, as women have entered fields of business, commerce and politics, and become more visible publicly, I find myself supporting Smith ever more fervantly. My niece, who will graduate from Smith this year, 2019, chose the college (early admission) for its strength of purpose in supporting women's careers and women's rights. She's just as proud of her Smith connection as I was when I attended the college in the 1960s, and I'm just as proud of her. I've come full circle. | 1/7/2019 5:34 PM   |
| 7  | A huge value of Smith to me was excellent woman role models.   | 1/6/2019 10:18 AM  |
| 28 | Note for question 52 and 53I actually did consider transferring to Sarah Lawrence to be closer to a city (I'd only lived in cities till Smith) and I am still in regular contact with 6 of my Comstock friends but we don't see each other except at reunions! Now for the Last Word, I would like to say that I am quite astounded by the fact that #MeToo became a thing in 2017 since I had the feeling we knew better and had established in the late 60's that you didn't go there because you were an educated, very capable woman who could get and do the job on your own merits. My mother had pointed me in the direction of being independent and self-sufficient from very young so women's rights and job equality were familiar concepts to me even during college. I did not have to fight my way into my career since secondary education is filled with women but I will say that I never encountered any sexism in my workplace. It hardly crossed my mind as an issue! The other surprise to me is that our cool 60's baby boomers have now been labeled as conservative elitists only interested in their money by many of the MillennialsHow did that happen? I certainly do not fit that mold and have many friends with similar feelings. That is very disappointing to me. Our generation of women, in particular, really got things going. Voilà! C'est la vie, je suppose  | 1/6/2019 3:51 AM   |

| 0  | Since my marriage in 1971, I have experienced both physical and emotional abuse from my spouse. I was caught by surprise (not even movies had prepared me for this). It took me a long time to understand and process what I was experiencing, until I finally began to learn to talk about it and get help. Still processing and healing - a life long journey.   | 1/4/2019 11:12 AM  |
| 1  | My negative experiences at Smith were largely related to my major dept (French). However I am very inspired by what Smith has become and the women who attend now.   | 1/3/2019 6:43 PM   |

| 5  | I was the first in my birth family to attend college. It was paid for almost completely by a non-Smith scholarship. For the future, the thing that most concerns me is losing my power as a person to choose and to influence.   | 1/2/2019 9:08 PM   |
| 36 | Life has gone far too fast. I find myself staggered to realize that I am 72where did it all go? Does that mean I wasn't paying attention?  | 1/2/2019 9:04 PM   |
| 37 | I was raped while on my Junior Year Abroad in Hamburg. That shock me up for a long time afterwards.  | 1/2/2019 8:35 PM   |

38 Nothing to share 12/28/2018 1:01 AM 12/27/2018 7:06 PM 39 No 40 Concern about my children (neither has a spouse or significant other) 12/26/2018 12:18 PM 41 I have been very fortunate in all areas of my life. 12/21/2018 11:59 AM 42 not applicable 12/21/2018 11:14 AM 43 I hope the #MeToo and #TimesUp movements continue into the future to provide safer educational 12/20/2018 2:17 PM and job experiences for women. When I was sexually harassed in graduate school, it was considered normal for male professor to go after female grad students and I was very upset with my male classmates who didn't think it was a problem at all. 44 I'm grateful for the amazing companions, friends, family & teachers in my life, through hard times 12/17/2018 10:50 AM and good times - my life has been a shower of blessings! 45 Life is amazingly lovely right now, as long as I don't look beyond the personal bubble of family, 12/16/2018 4:02 PM friends, and community. But the current Administration in Washington threatens the core values of our country as well as the stability of our alliances and the dangers we face from other countries. Also, I know that in the next few years I will lose loved ones and inevitably feel some loss of physical and cognitive health. So I practice an "attitude of gratitude" for all I have now. 46 I'm not happy with the current militancy around gender & social issues at Smith, nor the intense 12/16/2018 12:56 PM focus on career achievement. I would prefer that Smith, as a leading liberal arts institution, would be more "counter-cultural" and focus on humanistic values and enriching the life of the mind. 12/15/2018 5:59 PM 47 I am very unhappy with the current direction of the country, both because of the President himself and because politicians are distancing themselves from the center and any chance of collaboration with the other party; they worry more about their next election than the direction of the country. We need honesty, ethics and constructive dialogue in Washington and in our states. We need to deal with global warming and women's rights along with our fractured relationships with other countries. the serious illness of a child can be profound 12/11/2018 2:46 PM 48 12/11/2018 2:13 PM 49 I regret not knowing how to grab the opportunity that Smith was, and not really fulfilling the life opportunities that it might have offered later on. I'm grateful for the local Smith Book Group for social contact with Smithies, for whom I am something of an historical artifact. 50 Clarifications to some of the questions; I managed my mother's financial affairs but she died 8 12/10/2018 10:35 PM years ago. I experienced sexual discrimination but not sexual harassment. 51 Even though I was not all that happy while attending Smith, the Smith experience & degree has 12/10/2018 4:09 PM been a ticket to great personal success for me, including spouse, friends, and a career. My Smith education did not end with a diploma but on the contrary provided me with so many opportunities and people relationships that have filled the last 50 years and hopefully will fill another 30! Thank you, Smith! 12/10/2018 3:53 PM 52 Smith taught me how to be a life-long learner. This has enriched my life enormously. 53 looking back, I appreciate how well considered all aspects of our Smith opportunity were 12/10/2018 1:48 PM (leadership of staff, deans, etc) 12/10/2018 12:19 AM 54 Substantial loss of hearing has a big impact on my life at present. 55 I wish I had been able to pursue further education for a more challenging professional career. 12/9/2018 10:44 PM 56 Challenges: alcoholism, breast cancer, childlessness, chronic depression 12/9/2018 10:42 PM 57 My mother's family was from the South and racist so I've always had an obsession with racism. It 12/9/2018 8:21 PM wasn't until Viet Nam that I made the connection between racism against Africans and racism against other peoples of color I was at Smith when the Viet Nam war was raging and my fellow classmates -- and some of our professors -- helped me to understand how bad our government's policy was. And that set me on a path to move from my family's Republican perspective (Bushtype, not Teaparty or Trump!) to an anti-war perspective ... Can't credit Smith for what I now know about US history and foreign policy and white supremacy but it helped me get off the ground! Joys include years of travels -- including Iran (Sept/Oct of 2018) and previous trips to Middle East, China, Viet Nam, and Europe and multiple legal delegations to Latin and Central America. But I love the natural world and I think our kayaking trip to Alaska in 2006 was the most wonderful of all our trips... 12/9/2018 6:02 PM 58 I still deal with an eating disorder I developed in college.

We have been married for 48 years and I feel guilty for resenting this change in our lifestyle.  | 12/9/2018 3:08 PM  |
| 61                      | I think that I had a number of expectations (some of which are contradictory) when I attended Smith: To "start over" in a completely new environmenti,e. to escape my background; To cultivate a deeper intellectual life and to discover my true self and mature into adulthood; To reinvent myself.   | 12/9/2018 2:02 PM  |

| 64                      | Increasingly sad/preoccupied with fears about dying. Thought little about it when overly busy with work and responsibilities. Now it's looming. Yuck.   | 12/9/2018 11:55 AM |
| 65                      | I am grateful to Smith for supporting me financially, but it was not a good fit. I had one great mentor, who was a lifeline intellectually and one great roommate who remains a friend. Otherwise I would have been happier at a different college. Even as a senior, other students consistently confused me w other Asians: we all looked alike to the almost overwhelmingly white and privileged student body. | 12/9/2018 11:28 AM |
