I haven’t submitted any notes for a long time, so I’ll start with having graduated law school at the University of Connecticut after graduating from Smith. I ended my full-time legal career as General Counsel of a large radiology practice in Connecticut. Still practicing law but part-time, but fitting it in around producing and acting in shows for West Hartford Community Theater, where I am also President, and keeping up with my kids and 7 amazing grandchildren! Life has indeed been very good to me!

Mary Ellen Morgan AC'85 I was fortunate to run into Anne Boehm Wilson, 66, and we enjoyed reminiscing and laughing. Currently, I am a trainer for the local board of elections and enjoy it. The schedule allows me to be home to care for husband, Bob Donaldson, most of the year. I miss Smith and the Adas.

Dear Sisters, I became unable to work 16 years ago. My 1997 station wagon was ruined in a flood. In desperation, I've set up a Go Fund Me account, hoping to raise enough to get a used CRV. So if you are my friend on Facebook, you will understand why. Greetings to all of you, from "La Capital del Sol." Alina Green, Ada Class of 1998.

My partner of 10 years, Michael Runge, and I were married in Maui in October 2019. Our 7 year old son, Alex, was our ring-bearer. We bought a house in Kihei last year and hope to retire there in the next 10-12 years. In the meantime, I’m happy living in San Mateo, CA, with our cats Jasper and Nibbles.

Sally Ceriello AC'01, retired from her position in the Office of Endowment Administration at Dartmouth College. Sally has been working at Dartmouth for 13 years and is looking forward to writing, and finishing all her projects. The enclosed picture shows Sally celebrating her retirement with her colleague Hilary Merkel McMillan ’84.

Stephanie Gale AC'13 has joined the Recover Project locates in Greenfield, MA as Assistant Director.

I am so excited to receive my first NYC theatre reviews! Currently (until Nov. 3rd 2019) starring Off-Off Broadway in "Duck" at IRT Theatre in NYC, the show being listed as one of TimeOut NY's "most promising productions at smaller venues" and has also received a couple of great reviews, one noting, "Kellye Rowland is thoroughly engaging as Abbie. She has a sense of humor that illuminates what she does. It shines right through her eyes. Attractive and engaging when she meets Duck in the park, she’s a pleasure to watch as she morphs through the other two women in Duck’s life — his mother and his wife — a very subtle plot device when you think about it." And from Berkshire Fine Arts, "In many roles Kellye Rowland is a gentle, insistent presence. Particularly as a social worker who has just lost her finance and joins Duck on the bench, she has just the right touch of the therapist's compassion mixed with her own clear needs for confirmation and companionship." Up next I'm looking forward to my first foray into making my own work; I'm co-creating a show with two other talented women, which will start as a web series centering around three women who have reached middle age and the issues they face in their lives, the hopefully unique aspect being that these are women who don't have any children so the focus will be on navigating middle age as a woman without that particular lens, and there's a lot of us out here I think. Bring on my 50s! I'm feeling freer and more focused than I've ever felt in my life.

I have attached a production still of me (and fellow cast mate Michael Sean Cirelli) from "Duck" which I'd like to include as well!
