Dear Smith Alumnae and Friends:

We are pleased to sponsor Coastal Life: Cruising Thailand and the Malay Peninsula, a unique opportunity to experience life on the idyllic shores and unspoiled isles of the Andaman Sea, a mystical world where lush tropical islands rise from azure seas, fishing villages cling to jungle coastlines on stilts, and old city streets lined with temples and colonial mansions recall the glory of Asia’s illustrious spice trade.

On this splendid itinerary encounter the glistening monuments of Bangkok and retrace the course of ancient Chinese junks, Portuguese galleons, and Javanese payangs while sailing from the legendary island of Phuket to Singapore aboard the exclusively chartered, four-star S.Y. STAR CLIPPER, a four-masted barkentine that evokes the great ocean voyages of the 19th century. While cruising the historic shipping lanes of the old spice trade, see how traditional Thai fishermen proudly maintain the ways of their forefathers and gaze at the magnificent limestone cliffs soaring hundreds of feet into the air from sparkling emerald seas. Journey to the uninhabited Similan Islands, a magical world of lush rainforests, sandy beaches and pristine waters teeming with a dazzling array of exotic fish and coral. And in the historic ports of Malacca and Penang, discover rare pockets of “Old Asia” where the aromas of savory grilled satays and sweet Nyonya curries waft through narrow streets as colorful rickshaws rush past Chinese shophouses, Hindu shrines, and colonial forts that stand as reminders of the days when seafaring merchants from across the globe flocked to these shores in search of the riches of the East.

Among the many features of this travel program is the unique VILLAGE FORUM, where local residents share their perspectives into everyday life in coastal Southeast Asia. Additional highlights include exclusive opportunities to meet with local artisans and craftsmen on the island of Penang, learn more about the unique “Nyonya” heritage of Malacca and discover the bold flavors and artful presentations of Thai cuisine during a special culinary demonstration. This special itinerary also provides ample time to stroll along the region’s famous island beaches or swim and snorkel amid some of the world’s most colorful and vibrant coral reefs.

The exceptional value, superb accommodations and opportunity to travel with fellow alumni from Johns Hopkins University, Syracuse University and Wesleyan University to one of the world’s most alluring regions combine to create a truly enticing program that promises to sell out quickly. We urge you to make your reservation today, while Early Booking Savings are still available!

Sincerely,

Thai artistry and craftsmanship are appreciated the world over.

The small fishing village Koh Panyi is an architectural wonder, built entirely on stilts in the shallow waters of the Phang Nga Bay.
BANGKOK
Ancient and modern. Spiritual and visceral. East and West. They all stand side by side in the endlessly intriguing Thai capital of Bangkok, historic capital of the Kingdom of Siam. Here, amid a never-ending pageant of robed monks, boisterous street vendors and the infamous motorized rickshaws known as tuk-tuks, the shimmering spires of ancient palaces and glistening temples grace the skyline alongside towering skyscrapers, and traditional floating markets rub shoulders with Asia’s most fashionable boutiques. For centuries, life in Krung Thep (City of Angels)—as its known to the locals—has revolved around the graceful Chao Phraya River, a bustling thoroughfare of commerce and traffic upon whose banks lie the splendid Old City, the Grand Palace and an array of traditional Thai houses and houseboats interspersed with shrines and wats.

PHUKET
Centuries before it was claimed by Thailand, the idyllic island of Phuket was settled by the Chao Lay, the famous “sea gypsies,” whose traditional thatched villages and sleek longtail fishing boats still line its tranquil shores.

SIMILAN ISLANDS
With their magnificent beaches, lush forests and spectacular fringe reefs, the remote Similan Islands epitomize pristine island paradise. Deriving their name from the Malay word for ‘nine,’ simbilan—the number of islands in the group—the uninhabited Similan Islands and the surrounding coral reefs are a mecca for snorkeling, diving and bird-watching enthusiasts, but remain untouched by mainstream tourism, a trend that has protected their natural treasures. While walking through island forests, catch a glimpse of the islands’ 32 indigenous bird species and other exotic creatures like bush-tailed porcupines and the famous emerald-hued Nicobar pigeons. From atop the rocky hills of Ko Similan, enjoy stunning views of the isle’s splendid granite boulder formations, verdant jungles and the sparkling seas beyond.

PHANG NGA BAY
The ethereal seascape of multi-hued limestone mountains rising like giant natural skyscrapers from the emerald waters of Phang Nga Bay constitutes one of the most surreal and unforgettable sights in all of Asia. Formed by slow-flowing glaciers millions of years ago, the area’s highly distinct karst formations and limestone outcroppings are riddled with innumerable hidden coves, inlets and caves, many of which have been festooned with paintings or converted into Buddhist monasteries. The most famous of these is the rocky pinnacle of Ko Tapu, which dramatically juts toward the sky like a solitary pillar from the waters off Ko PInggan. On the nearby island of Ko Panyi, Indonesian “sea gypsies” settled in the 18th century and built an entire village on stilts over the water at the foot of the island’s limestone hills. Today, the villagers are known for their warm hospitality and exquisite seafood, and can be seen hauling the day’s catch from their longtail boats and making... the island’s fabled kapi shrimp paste, prized by chefs across Thailand.

KO HONG AND KO ADANG

Mother Nature displays her softer side along the tranquil shores of Ko Hong bay, where gentle waves serenely lap on white silica beaches and palms slowly sway in the tropical breeze. Nearly completely enclosed by the island’s tree-covered limestone cliffs, this idyllic lagoon with its translucent waters provides a perfect escape from the rigors of 21st-century life while encapsulating the timeless beauty of the Andaman Sea. Carpeted with dense jungle and bejeweled with pristine beaches and dazzling coral reefs, the untouched paradise of Ko Adang was originally settled by the Chao Lay, who were drawn by its freshwater streams and excellent fishing. Today, the island’s sandy coastline and forest trails are perfect for an afternoon stroll, while turquoise waters provide exceptional opportunities for snorkelers to explore kaleidoscopic coral reefs, multi-colored fish and exotic creatures of the deep.

SINGAPORE

Forged by the visions of Sir Thomas Stamford Raffles and Lee Kwan Yew, combined with the toil and entrepreneurship of immigrants from China, Malaya and India, Singapore has been transformed in less than two centuries from a small backwater village on the Straits of Malacca into the world’s busiest container port and a cosmopolitan center of international finance and trade. Yet, while glittering skyscrapers and opulent shopping centers stand as testaments to this polyglot city’s stunning prosperity, its ethnic roots and immigrant soul proudly live on in the teahouses of Chinatown, the markets of Arab Street and the colorful bazaars of Little India on Serangoon Road.
